

My-Biz-Doc.com – What is it?

Small business is the backbone of the American economy but typically these small entrepreneurs are good at their craft but are not really good “Business Men of Women”. To be successful a small business needs three things; sufficient capital or funds to conduct the business, technical expertise to run the business and business acumen to run the business and avoid the pitfalls that can really cause financial problems for the business. As an example if you are in the roofing business, you have to have the technical expertise to know how to put a roof on and/or repair it etc. You will also need to have sufficient cash on hand to buy the materials and pay your labor etc. until you get paid from your customer; sufficient capital. Lastly, you need to know how to run a business, in short, be a business man. Often entrepreneurs have the cash to start the business and they have the technical expertise to do the business but lack the business acumen to run the business profitably.

This is where we come in at My-Biz-Doc.com. Typically we start by analyzing and appraising the business so we know the financial health of the business and what the business is worth. These two items are also the most asked questions when buying or selling or getting funding for the business also. From this starting analysis we may branch into funding or perhaps product imports or taxes or profit development etc. My-Biz-Doc.com is the website for T J Stewart and the firm has been engaged in small business consulting since 1980 serving clients throughout the country.

Often business buyers and/or sellers contact us for a disinterested third party expert opinion as to business value and or to validate the financial health of the business before making an offer to purchase or investing in the business. A particularly high demand service at My-Biz-Doc.com is our Guaranteed Profit Development service. Here we preliminarily review the business and once we agree on a percentage of profits we can generate we go under contract with the business to produce this profit. We make recommendations the business owner implements and we monitor the business quarterly to review the business progress. If after a year and the business has implemented all our suggestions and still falls below the profit percentage, we will refund all fees collected.

So, If you're looking for a business consultant or business analyst or a management consultant or a marketing consultant or a small business consultant this is it. If your business is lagging in profitability or you are thinking of buying or selling or refinancing visit My-Biz-Doc.com and get the information you need to accomplish your business goals. We have many satisfied clients from coast to coast since 1980.
